on the occasion of the global day of action, friends and members of Tibetan youth association Europe held a huge graffiti event in Zurich, Switzerland. There were street-artists from different countries working the whole day and after having finished the main-piece, a 30m long graffiti with the slogan "stand up for Tibet", the spectators could leave their own message on the wall. many supporters and media people were present - the idea behind was to encourage the Swiss people, especially the young ones, to get active and to show, that everyone can leave a message, which will be heard, seen, read.
